Amiga Specialty launches Pension Trustee Liability ROOBI offering

[LONDON] – Amiga Specialty has announced the launch of its Pension Trustee Liability Run-off and Overlooked Beneficiary Insurance (ROOBI) offering, further expanding its specialist Financial Lines capability.

The new facility enables Amiga to provide limits of up to GBP 5 million in the aggregate, with policy periods of up to 15 years, supporting pension schemes connected to sponsoring employers domiciled in the UK, Guernsey, Jersey, the Isle of Man and Gibraltar, with worldwide territorial coverage available. Working with A-rated capacity, the team has developed a specialist product designed to address the complex, long-tail exposures that can arise during and following pension scheme wind-ups.

While this is a new offering for Amiga, it is underpinned by more than 25 years of specialist underwriting experience within the team and will sit alongside Amiga's established Financial Institutions and Management Liability portfolios. Forming part of the MGA's broader strategy of building targeted, specialist underwriting capabilities supported by experienced teams and strong capacity.

Jamie Ricketts, Managing Director – Financial Institutions at Amiga Specialty, said: "Pension Trustee Liability ROOBI is a highly specialist area requiring detailed understanding of pension scheme wind-ups and the exposures that can remain long after completion. This product reflects that, combining our experience with a flexible, long-term solution for brokers in a market where specialist capacity remains limited."

Adam Kembrooke, Founder and CEO of Amiga Specialty, added: "This is a product we have always planned to bring to Amiga. Backed by A-rated capacity, and alongside our broader Financial Lines capabilities, it further strengthens our ability to support brokers and clients with a comprehensive and specialist-led offering."

Amiga is now engaging with brokers both within its existing network and more widely, offering an experienced and responsive market for Pension Trustee Liability and ROOBI risks.
